General Mahone's Plan. We give to-day a good deal of room to the discussion of questions connected with the next pres' deutial election and with the proper cow se for the Conservative party of Virginia to pursue under the circumstances now existing in this State. We have not confined our readers to the views of one set of wen, but given those of several of them, Of course, there are diverse opinions expressed and inconsistent recommendations made. But as all come from men who wish the State to cast her vote for the Democratic candidate for President we give the whole batch. The first thing to do when the human body is diseased is to make a correct diagnosis. Then a proper remedy I nay be found. So with the Conservative; party. Let us have a correct diagnosis of it s present deplorable condition. Then let a remedy be found.

It seems, however, that the le ader of the Readjusters has no idea of retur ning to his allegiance to the Conservative f arty, nor of allying biase f with the Reproblican party or the Democratic party. He t vishes to hold Virginia in the hollow of his 1 and next November, and have the privil ege of turning over her eleven electoral vo tes to whomso ever he may think proper to give them. In an interview with the B ichmond correspondent of the New Yorl ; Herald General MARONE is reported to I ave said what fol-

"General Mahone rep lied that he would have the same objection a to Blaine on the one hand as he would be ave to the most extreme Bourbon Democration that the Readjusters or Liberals of Virginia neither meant to be sorced out of their position by the Demoeratic or Republican machines in the State.

They would defeat ooth of them again, as they did in Novem ber last. In regard to the future national course of the new party the most that Geo eral Mabone would say was that he favore d the call of a Liberal of Readjusters' Stat & Convention, of placing independent elef tors in the field, and of electing him as il iey did their ticket last No vember, and afte rwards of casting the elec-toral vote of Virginia as seemed best for her interest, regas dless of party. Such a plan as this, if suce seful, might make Virginia the arbiter of ! the next presidency."

Cameronita : and Chandlerize Virginia ! We think the re can be no doubt that the reporter gist es the substance of what General Maned E said to him; for his organ came out Saturd ay with the same scheme. Isn't it a fine pt ogramme? How do the people of Vir ginia like the new character in which they are to appear next November?-as sheep in the shambles to be sold to the first or the highest bidder? We are amaz ed to find that General MAHONE has so far least his head as to propose deliberately such a plan as this for disposing of the vote of I as mother State.

We are not sorry to see this scheme before the public, except that we would prefer to see the Conservative party thoroughly amending the Constitution concerning the proaching presidential election? I would refit alter in the presidential election. If magisterial system, with the request that it suggest such members of the State Committhere is to be any scheme for dividing the peo ple of Virginia, we prefer this to be ado pted by the Readjusters rather than any other we have heard of or can conceivefor it will not draw off from the Democratic party votes enough to endanger the success of our ticket.

He explained that statement that Grant will not be a contest-be had been asked by a personal friend to antifor the candidacy." Mr. Halstead says by such mer a and in such manner as will insure that the great body of the Conservatives will set 'd delegates to it.

But it will bave been seen that General MARONE's org ;an-speaking, it is to be presumed for hin :- desires that the Readjusters shall nominate: an electoral ticket of their -own, compose d of men committed to no party. We have said that this might be presumed to be Ge neral MAHONE's scheme; but we must add that if it is, the Conservatives need not trouble themselves as to how, or in the presidential election. The people of College for investigation, &c. Virginia are not going to set themselves up Ao the big hest bidder.

The Presidential Election. The press of the State is beginning to agitate the question of what the Readjusters will do in the fall elections. Without claiming the gift of prophecy, we will tell them. Mr. Daniel., from the Committee for Courts of Justice, reported: Bills to reduce the fees of clerks of circuit, corporation, and county courts, with the recommendation that it do not pass; to amend the Code in relation to unlawful entry or detainer, with the recommendation that it do not have the same folly that caused the disruption of the conservative party call a convention when they may, never mind how worded, no Reždjuster—unless it be some one disaffected by a failure to secure a place or position—will respond to it. About the first of the two it is plain sailing; about the second, not so plain. As far, however, as any published evidences of its purposes that we have seen go, it proposes to maintain its present organization intact as far as it is with a Readjuster electoral ticket-a rather queer element in national politics. The prospect, therefore, is that there may be three tickets in the field. It will be, we think, a pretty hard task to convince th stead of voting for a ticket piedged to the nominee of the Democratic National Con-vention, they must vote for an independent electoral ticket, pledged to nothing and nobody, and as likely to give the State to one candidate as another, and we apprehend
